CROC 2022 ANNUAL REPORT (page 1/2)

On February 21, 2021, the first CROC podcast aired.

Although unheralded, unadvertised, and un-hyped, the significance of this event was nothing short of sublime.

Utilizing 22 years of survivor support experience, careful and thoughtful strategic planning, the expert tutelage of Angel Santana of Have Faith Let it Begin, coupled with the technical and creative direction from Rod Freeman from Small Biz Up, the CROC podcast went from dream to reality.

I know what you're thinking, why a podcast? With thousands if not millions of podcasts by Uber famous superstars ranging from Oprah to Snoop Dogg, how could a local grassroots Cancer support organization hosted by a quirky and eccentric physician ever hope to be relevant.

Well, I have an answer. We will be relevant because we have relevant, important, innovative, honest, and necessary information to share with our survivors.

Cancer is a unique disease with unique challenges and paradoxes.

For instance, what disease has cures that can kill?

What disease inspires fear just by its name?

What disease is so terrifying that its victims would trade it for heart disease, hypertension, diabetes, multiple sclerosis, or all the above in a heartbeat. Finally what disease is so vexing, taxing, challenging, and poorly understood, that the entire oncologic process is confusing at best and sadly, very inadequate and broken.

It is exactly for all these reasons that our podcast, actually any and all conceivable resources, are not only relevant, but necessary to help ease the burden and smooth out the rough roads our survivor's journey on day-after-day, week after week, year after year, decade after decade, and lifetime after lifetime.

Utilizing the university core curriculum as a guide, we have devised a course-based learning podcast with 12 "Major "categories, each broken up into multiple related modules, each with multiple episodes.

Starting with Defining Survivorship as a solid foundation, our modules focus on subjects that directly influence and improve quality of life, and go directly behind the scenes to not only point out the problems of a broken medical system, but also give solutions to the problem.

Each module represents a specific tool to throw into the survivor's toolbox; a classic reference book for the survivor's library; the ultimate bodyguard to protect a survivor from the ultimate bully.

Yet as exciting and fun and invigorating as this new incarnation of CROC has been, it naturally comes with all the growing pains that a new endeavor faces.

For instance, as much as I love to talk, I never thought that having to talk on command and riffing off the cuff while the record button was blinking red would be so difficult.

I never thought that coming up with new ideas, securing guest experts, and researching topics, with a weekly turnaround, would be so stressful.

I never thought the technicalities of Internet connections, sound mixing, recording hardware and software, and precise editing, would be more voodoo than who do.

I never recognize the full responsibility I had to provide our brave survivors with the perfect survivorship curriculum; lovingly and selectively picking and choosing subjects that were most necessary to make immediate and lasting impact on their journey.

But in all things, when you ask and pray for something to be great, God delivers. And He delivered to me this year some of the most astounding internationally recognized and inspiring guests that quickly became friends.

He delivered to me yet another stellar Board of Directors with deep talent to guide the organization and pure commitment to serve the survivors.

Lastly, maybe motivated by the new podcast, maybe inspired by the new Board of Directors, maybe a little Divine Inspiration; or more likely a nice blend of all three, I formally constructed the four pillars of CROC.

That is to say, those broad and strong beams which have faithfully held the CROC organization together for 22 years of facing the strong winds of adversity, the blinding winds of despair, and the soul crushing snows of doubt.

And it is with these four pillars that I end this year's annual report.
